In 1974 Ellen Mohl was the first person from Seattle to graduate from the Culinary Institute of America. She received an AOS in Culinary Arts. In 1976 she graduated from the University of Washington. That same year, at 21 years old, Ellen opened Original Ellen's, a successful and well known restaurant which she operated until 1987 when she began her second successful career, this time in commercial real estate.

Ellen is a client driven agent. She both sells and leases real estate, concentrating on the close-in Seattle neighborhoods, and represents clients in retail, office, and warehouse transactions. Her recent sales have ranged in price from $500,000 to $5,500,000 and her recent leases have been for spaces between 1,000 to 18,000 square feet in size.

During the past 20 plus years of Ellen's career she has also raised two children, run a household and been involved in Seattle's Public Schools. She is an active squash player, downhill skier, and seamstress.
